DISCOVERY WRITERS

'The Art of Writing'

Our Vision

To develop and encourage writing in a supportive and collaborative environment and to provide opportunities for writers to reflect upon, celebrate and articulate the diversity of our community.

The Journey So Far

Since 2007 we have devised local writing projects specifically to meet local community needs. Participants are drawn from all walks of life and share their stories and poems in a friendship afternoon. Each year a theme becomes a focus for writing, while the art and craft of writing, the shaping and editing of a text allows for discussion and reflection.

The group is grateful for the ongoing support provided by Georges River Library.

Opportunities

Benefits of membership include:

- ❖ Fellowship with others interested in writing
- ❖ Access to a monthly writing program
- ❖ Reading and critiquing at monthly meetings
- ❖ Receipt of a monthly information sheet
- ❖ Access to special projects and programs
- ❖ Access to publications and competition opportunities
- ❖ Opportunity to have work published on the group's website:

The Here and Now

Discovery Writers meet 1.00-3.00 pm on the last Tuesday of the month (excluding January and December) in the Miles Franklin Room at Hurstville City Library.

Each month, a writing workshop on a topic of interest is held. Short exercises build skill and enhance awareness of current writing practices. Members are encouraged to share their stories, articles, poems and/or plays.

'The Art of Writing' is a gift to share.
